

COURT'S ORDER AGAINST MINN. GOV. SOUGHT

Employers Will Seek to Have Olson's Act Declared Illegal.

Minneapolis, Aug. 6.—(AP)—A court injunction to prevent Gov. Floyd B. Olson and the National Guard from continuing the Governor's rigid restrictions against movement of commercial vehicles through the truck drivers strike will be sought immediately by employers, they announced today.

The legality of the order closing streets to all trucks save those specifically exempt and those given permits to operate by the National Guard will be attacked in the action which will charge a violation of constitutional rights.

By "Individuals" Employers said a group of "individuals" would bring the action and not the employers' advisory committee. Spokesmen refused to divulge in what court the request would be made, first for a temporary restraining order and then for a permanent injunction.

However, it was known that Ivan Bowen, former member of the state railroad and warehouse commission and now representing trucking concerns, had an appointment with a judge of the United States district court here for noon today. He indicated the action would be filed at noon.

"Unlawful" Action Claims also will be made that the governor's action in allowing permits to be issued only those firms subscribing to the Haas-Dunnigan peace plan, in addition to those also exempted in the order, was unlawful since it prevented other employers the right to use the streets in lawfully conducting their business.

The action also will allege there was no need for imposition of military rule. The Governor, in declaring martial rule, set forth there was a state of insurrection that might lead to bloodshed and riots, necessitating his military decree to "maintain law and order."

Former Permits Voided Only a few trucks were permitted to move and their owners, under the Governor's edict, effective one minute past last midnight, had to have permits from the National Guard. All military permits, under which some 7,000 trucks operated the last few days were revoked.

The Governor said there were hints of a revolt in the ranks of the employers some 20 of whom he said want to meet strikers' demand. He added he did not know whether the 20 were among a similar number of truck owners who "indicated" they would apply for permits to operate by subscribing to the Haas-Dunnigan peace plan and thus avoid restrictions imposed. The Haas-Dunnigan plan provided a higher wage scale than offered by an employers' compromise.

A few specific truck classes are exempt from the order, to be carried out by 500 National Guardsmen, here enforcing military rule.

Fail to Agree The edict was put into effect when strikers and employers failed to reach an agreement in the time limit set by the chief executive. The employers' advisory committee stood on their peace offer while strikers insisted upon adoption of the Haas-Dunnigan proposal for the settlement.

The Rev. Francis Haas and E. H. Dunnigan, Federal mediators recommended, among others, reinstatement of employees without discrimination. The employers' offer provided for reinstatement from a "preferred" list of workers to be made up by them.

Delivery of Minneapolis newspapers and newsprint was not hampered. Publishers were given blanket authority by the military to move their trucks with the understanding that they apply for permits as soon as convenient. No application by newspapers for permits for trucks carrying either newspapers or newsprint was denied.

STOCKYARDS BUSY Chicago, Aug. 6.—(AP)—It was "business as usual" at the Chicago stockyards today, as 1,200 handlers put their strike behind them and went back to work.

Trucks and trainloads of cattle and hogs moved into the Union Stock Yards & Transit Company's pens at normal pace for the first time since July 24. Early morning found the commission men trading again with almost normal supplies on hand.

The men were back under an agreement made to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chief, left Saturday after the administrator had put in two days reconciling the men and their employers, split over hours of work and pay.

Under the peace terms, regularly employed drivers were promised the 48 hour minimum work week they had demanded, in any week when receipts run as high as 4,000 cars. "Extra men" were guaranteed at least 40 hours of work, in similar weeks and Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan agreed to mediate other disputed points.

Resumption at the yards guaranteed that the government's relief cattle buying program would not be delayed. Thousands of head of nearly starved animals, brought from the farmers of the drought-stricken northwest, are being canned for distribution to the unemployed.

You'll Eat Your Weight in Meat in Current Year

Baltimore, Aug. (AP)—The average American will eat his weight in meat this year, according to figures presented the 49th annual convention of the National Retail Meat Dealers' Association, in session here.

In beef, alone, the United States per capita consumption will be approximately 74 pounds, well above the average ration of the famed beef eaters of England. Pork is running a close second.

The figures, presented the convention today by William Whitfield Woods, Chicago, president of the Institute of American Meat Packers, reported an increased business for butchers over the country. The 74 pounds average annual consumption of beef indicated by figures for the first six months, he said, was about 20 pounds above that of 1933.

Pork prospects were for a consumption slightly under the average of 74 pounds last year, he said, but most meats were selling better. The total consumption should be close to 150 pounds per person.

Producers of livestock, said Woods, have received $65,000,000 more than the corresponding period of last year, an increase of approximately 14 per cent.

The convention will be in session here through Thursday.

SAMPELL PLEA OF SICK SON IS UNAVAILING

Chicago Judge Orders Former Utility Co. Head to Trial

Chicago, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Marshall E. Sampell was ordered to trial today on the charge that he embezzled 4,000 shares of preferred stock of the Central Illinois Public Service Company of which he formerly was president.

Sampell was first of the former utility executives to be brought to trial on indictments that sprang from the wreckage of the big investment and holding companies.

His attorneys made a last attempt this morning to defer the trial, asking that further courtesy be extended Sampell because of the grave illness of his son Bruce, who was taken to a hospital Saturday with acute appendicitis. Judge Michael Feinberg in Criminal Court refused the delay and directed that the trial proceed as soon as other court motions were disposed of.

Sampell is accused of using the Treasury stock to bolster his collateral on private loans.

The defense waived the right to a jury trial, electing to abide by the decision of Judge Feinberg.

McCarty said they had slept last night in a ditch along the right of way. Billman, in trying to board a moving car, was thrown backward, his head striking a post.

VON HINDENBURG TO PASS ALONG LANE OF FLAMES

Field Marshal's Body to be Carried 60 Miles to Tomb

Neudeck, Germany, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Through a lane of flaming torches sixty miles long, the body of Paul von Hindenburg will be taken tonight to his grave.

At dusk a squadron of seven aviators, piloted by East Prussian aviators, will scatter red roses over the Neudeck estate the late president and field marshal loved so well.

Brief memorial exercises will be held in the manor house. Then the coffin bearing the body of Germany's hero will be placed on a gun carriage for the trip to Tannenberg, scene of one of his greatest military triumphs.

Uniformed men will line the roadside, torches in hand, in honor of the old soldier. Nazi storm troops, Schutz Stafel members and Hitler youth will join the regular army in the tribute as the caisson rumbles along.

On Flower-Strewn Road Flowers and branches of oak and fir will be strewn along the road. At Tannenberg, site of Germany's victory over Russia in 1914 the body will be placed in the marshal's tower of the national memorial, a tower now known as "von Hindenburg Tower."

Adolf Hitler, who eulogized the Reichstag in Berlin, will be the speaker at funeral exercises tomorrow.

Before the ceremony von Hindenburg's body will be taken from the tower to a catafalque in front of a large cross where are buried 20 unknown soldiers killed in the Battle of Tannenberg. Here Hitler will speak. Six hundred men have been at work in day and night shifts erecting seats for the thousands of mourners.

AGGRESSION SHELVED

London, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The London Mail quotes Chancellor Hitler as saying in an interview in Berlin "believe me we shall never fight again except in self-defense."

"If it rests with Germany," Hitler said, "war will not come again. This country has a more profound impression than any other of the evils war causes."

Questioned on the Austrian situation, the chancellor said "we shall not attack Austria but we cannot prevent Austrians seeking to restore their ancient connection with Germany."

"Anschluss" union of the two countries is not a problem of the present day. Austrian independence lies outside all discussion and nobody questions it.

"It is natural that Germans of Austria should incline toward union with Germany, but we all know this. The aim is impossible at present, because opposition to it from the rest of Europe would be too great."

Aviator Trapped in Cockpit Of Airplane with Dead Companion

Blythe, Calif., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Trapped for two days in the cockpit of a plane beside the body of his flying companion on the Colorado river bottom, William Henry of San Diego lay critically ill in a hospital today.

He was rescued yesterday by cowboys who searched the area when Pilot Walter Ballard, with a broken shoulder and several fractured ribs, fought his way through the blazing heat of the Imperial Valley to bring word of the crash.

Trapped in the plane's wreckage with Henry was the body of James McCadden of San Diego. He was killed Friday when the plane crashed as Ballard tried to "pancake" it safely on the river bottom to escape a severe desert storm.

POLICE CAPTAIN AT BELLEVILLE KILLS 2 BANDITS

Identity of the Slain Men Is Not Established: Officer Wounded

Belleville, Ill., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Belleville officials today sought to identify the bodies of two cruising bandits, shot and killed by Police Captain Eugene Le Pere, early yesterday as they fled from a taxi cab they had commandeered, ostensibly to use in a robbery.

Captain Le Pere was wounded by one of the pair in a running gun fight that ended in their death. The officers' condition was not critical.

The fatal gun fight started when John Schuerich, who had been held captive in his own taxi for five hours, jumped from the cab and shouted to the officer, standing at a nearby street corner. At the time Schuerich escaped one of his captors was in a restaurant. He said he had heard the men discuss plans to rob it.

Men Fled Together Captain Le Pere, attracted by shouts from Schuerich, ran to the cab and the men fled together. After chasing them several blocks the men separated and one of them fired a shot at the officer wounding him in the leg. Firing at the man ahead of him, Captain Le Pere killed him instantly. He then turned the gun on the second man, fatally wounding him.

Schuerich said the two men entered the cab about 9 o'clock, robbed him of $75.00, bound him and placed him in the rear seat. They then visited a number of night resorts in and near Belleville, he said discussing robbery plans. Finally they returned to the Belleville restaurant, removed Schuerich's bounds and he escaped.

Johns, United States District Engineer here. A total of $12,000,000 has been spent on the $33,500,000 PWA allocation of 1933 and work is being pushed on 13 locks or dams at as many different sites along the river.

Convict Killed in Attempt to Flee in Night

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Manual Rinker, 32, convict in the Missouri state penitentiary, serving 30 years for bank robbery, was shot to death today when he and John O'Brien, convict from St. Louis county, attempted to escape. O'Brien was wounded and taken to the prison hospital.

The men were discovered on the roof of the prison warehouse by A. W. Bender, a guard, who opened fire when they refused to surrender.

The convicts, cellmates, had saved the bars from the cell window, and lowered themselves from their cells with improvised rope made from blankets.

Prison officials said that when Bender surprised them they were about to cut wires which would throw the eastern and northern ends of the prison into darkness, and thus aid in their escape.

J. M. Sanders, warden, began an investigation.

O'Brien, 39, was serving a 10-year term for first degree robbery.

Rinker had served four years of his term. While O'Brien was completing his second year.

The shooting took place about 2:30 A. M.

Grain Prices Reach New High for Year

Chicago, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Grain prices swept upward to new high marks for the year today as a spurge of speculative buying on reports of increasing damage to corn and Canadian wheat engulfed the market.

Wheat rose to a park of $1.13 1-2 cents a bushel for May, up 4 5-8 cents from Saturday's finish, almost the limit allowed by trading rules and then set back to a close just a fraction under the high.

September deliveries went to the top of $1.08 3-8, almost a cent above the season's high mark established during the early June buying rush, and 21 cents above the year's low.

Broad public buying was in evidence. Small orders deluged the pits soon after the opening. Some traders said speculative interest today was the largest it has been in some time.

With both Winnipeg and Liverpool markets closed, bulls found an additional incentive to buy in upturns at Rotterdam and Buenos Aires. A hot wave in parts of the corn belt in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa and the Dakotas was given much attention.

ROOSEVELT ON INSPECTION OF
ANOTHER WORKS

Fort Peck Dam Will be Goal of Journey in the West Today

Enroute with President Roosevelt to Washington, Aug. 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt traveled onto new western developments today with a declaration that his administration is just beginning a war on individual selfishness "to save our resources of agriculture and industry."

This statement of battle in a congressional election year was laid down last night from a tourist cottage on Two Medicine Lake high up in Glacier National Park.

Today, Roosevelt rode his special train to Glasgow, Mont., where he expects to inspect another dam, Fort Peck—on the upper Missouri. The project will harness this stream against floods and provide eventually power and navigation for the region.

Roosevelt is closely reviewing the efforts of the government to make the Columbia and Missouri rivers of the northwest provide places for families of the congested areas elsewhere.

Gave Radio Address. "I believe," said the President, in a radio address, "we are building a better comprehension of our national needs."

"People understand, as never before, the splendid public purpose that underlies the development of great power sites, the improving of navigation, the prevention of flood and of the erosion of our agricultural fields, the prevention of forest fires, the diversification of farming and the distribution of industry."

We know more and more, that the east has a stake in the west and the west has a stake in the east, that the nation must and shall be considered as a whole and not as an aggregation of disjointed groups.

"May we come better to know every part of our great heritage in the days to come."

"We have won the greater part of the fight to obtain and to retain these great public park properties for the benefit of the public. We are at the threshold of even more important a battle to save our resources of agriculture and industry against the selfishness of individuals."

Adopted by Indians. Upon reaching the Two Medicine Lake retreat last night with Mrs. Roosevelt, Senator Wheeler of Montana, and Secretary Ickes, administrator of the two billion dollar public works program, the President was formally adopted by the Blackfoot Indians. "Lone Chief" was the title given the President, a name of one of the tribe's greatest chiefs.

Mrs. Roosevelt was referred to constantly by the Indians as the "grand white mother" and she was given the tribal name of "Medicine Pipe Woman."

Secretary Ickes was adopted as "Big Bear."

Tractor Party Off on Second Attempt to Rescue Admiral

Little America, Antarctica, Aug. 6.—(AP)—A second tractor party has set out from Little America on another attempt to bring Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd back from his lonely, ice-encased observation post 123 miles to the south.

The expedition left Saturday shortly after word by wireless was received from Byrd.

Dr. Thomas Poulter in charge of the party which was forced by howling Antarctic storms recently to turn back a ter reaching only the half-way mark, was in command of the group of four.

"We may put through in a couple of days," he said, "and again we might be out there a long time. If we meet with an accident or are stopped by blizzards, there is no telling."

Dr. Poulter will set his course by navigation. His little party carried a two-months supply of food.

BATTLE OF NEW ORLEANS TAKEN TO COURT TODAY Authority of Mayor Over Police Force Issue at Stake

New Orleans, Aug. 6.—(AP)—City and state officials who have arrayed opposing armed forces against each other for a week, today took their dispute to a civil district court room, with Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley's authority over the New Orleans police at stake.

There, Judge Nat W. Bond opened hearing on a city suit to enjoin the functioning of a new city police board, provided for in a bill pushed through the legislature by Senator Huey P. Long.

Thompson Thinking of Again Seeking Chicago Mayoralty

Chicago, Aug. 6.—(AP)—William Hale Thompson may seek to become mayor of Chicago again.

"Big Bill"—three times mayor of Chicago—was reported today to be willing to make the race for the city's executive chair if Mayor Edward Kelly seeks the Democratic nomination.

No definite information was forthcoming from the former mayor or himself, but his friends were reported as saying Thompson is showing an interest in politics again. One of his friends was quoted as saying he thought Thompson could beat Kelly.

Thompson won widespread publicity during his "America First" campaign in 1927, when he said he would like to crack King George of England "on the snout." He was defeated for re-election in April of 1931 by the Democratic candidate, the late Anton J. Cermak.

Principal Farm Week Speaker

Davis to Address Farm Folk at World's Fair Celebration

Chicago.—Four thousand dollars in prizes, the largest and most elaborate parade of the exposition, speakers with messages vital to agricultural interests, spectacular special programs and exhibits are expected to draw the largest week's attendance of A Century of Progress Farm Week, Aug. 11 to 18.

Chester C. Davis, administrator of the A. A. A., will be the featured speaker of Farm Week, appearing in an address of national importance during Farm Organization Day, Monday, August 13. Last year the secretary of agriculture, Hugh Wallace, announced his momentous corn-and-hog program during Farm Week at the Fair. Mr. Davis' subject will be of similar importance to the farm population of America. He will address the farm audience from the stage of the Court of States.

The prize contests are open to farmers and farm boys, farm women and farm girls, and cover a wide range, from sports to spelling bees. Outstanding among the special contests will be a horse pulling contest August 17 and 18 in the amphitheater of the Court of States, which can accommodate 12,000 persons. In this tug-of-war between the finest draft teams in the country, the following awards will be made: first place, $750; second, $400; third, $250; fourth, $100.

The next largest total of prize money, $650, will go to farm boys and girls who will vie for honors in health, spelling and fashion contests. The winners of these events will be determined on August 16. Farm sports will hold the spotlight on Friday and Saturday. For a tug-of-war, eight men teams, a total of $175 is offered. First prize is $100; second, $50; third, $25. On the day following, state and community champions will match their skill in hog calling, husband calling, and milking contests.

Old fiddlers from more than seven states will appear on the stage of the Court of States Wednesday, August 15, during Farm Women's Day. Prize money totals $50. A darning contest in which both speed and neatness will count will be conducted for farm women. Three cash prizes will be awarded. Prizes also will be awarded to the farm family coming the greatest distance, the large farm family present during the week, and the oldest couple. A registration booth will be set up at a designated headquarters and these three events will be held open throughout the week.

The week's activities will be launched with a huge agricultural parade from Chicago's loop to the

Daily Health Talk

BODY TEMPERATURE CONTROL

At least we can talk about the control of body temperature. The matter is of new interest in the light of the therapeutic possibilities in utilizing high and low temperatures for treating diseases.

Of all the physiological qualities of the human body, temperature is about the most constant. In health, body temperature varies but very little. This is particularly remarkable in the light of the many factors that enter into the determination of body temperature.

How, then, is body temperature maintained at a constant level under such varying conditions? The answer is given in terms of a highly delicate nervous mechanism located somewhere in the upper region of the nervous system and described as the temperature regulating center; also, in terms of several other mechanisms through which the production of heat is stimulated or depressed and through which heat may be lost.

During severe exercise the body is called upon to get rid of seven times as much heat as it produced by the body at rest. On the other hand, in a bracingly cold temperature, shivering, which is a form of involuntary muscular action, produces heat essential to maintain the body at the proper temperature.

Incidentally, it is a matter of great interest why the temperature of warm-blooded animals is maintained about the level of 98.6 degrees F. It is thought that "in the course of the ages the sea must have passed this point in cooling to its present temperature, and this passage may represent a critical period in the history of warm-blooded animals."

Bacteria, however, can stand extraordinary changes in temperature, some surviving when exposed to 129.2 degrees F. of heat, or to 94 degrees F. of cold. The spore-bearing bacteria are even more resistant. Not all germs are quite as resistant. The germ of syphilis, for example, succumbs after exposure to 107.6 degrees F. for one hour.

Harrison Tells of News on Side Streets of N. York

BY PAUL HARRISON

New York—Your Broadway correspondent has been worrying lately about the unemployment problem. What with the heat, the bromidity and the general dullness of a season when everybody ought to be taking a vacation anyway, I have been going around among the cynical and the jaundiced storing up a lot of dandy antipathies.

And so here is a selection of pet peeves. Night club masters of ceremony who spend an hour introducing people named Zilch and Blotz whom nobody ever heard of. Night club managers who require their entertainers to sit at customers' tables. People who exploit child prodigies. Night club comedians who try to disguise barnyard stores with music. People who say "It must be grand to go to night club every night."

Rudy Vallee's oratory. The evening runs down when the gets wound up. Most of the cane. Jimmy Durante. Imitations of Jimmy Durante. George Givot. and all imitations of George Givot. Rain-barrel sopranos. People who swear at waiters. Uppity waiters who glare at you malevolently when you ask for something. Blondes with dark fringes. Drunken hecklers of entertainers who are doing their best to please. People who write lyrics about little piggies and lambs. Most of us could exist for some time without any more little piggies.

And Press Agents

Taxi drivers who never have change for a dollar. Suede shoes on men. Mannish clothes on women. Rain on weekends. People who say, "Communist see me som-m-me-time." Dead-herring handshakes. Press agents. Especially press agents who steal jokes and then attribute them to their pet clients. The other day I received an item labeled, "Exclusive to Paul Harrison." It had been taken almost word-for-word from a column I wrote two months ago.

Men who yell at their secretaries. Producers who never tell the truth about their own shows. Chorus girls who slander other chorus girls. Broadway cliques that conduct defamatory whispering campaigns. Chain letters. Broadwaymen who only qualify adjectives as "lousy" and "terrible." People who say, "I used to be a newspaperman myself," and say it in a conciliatory way which indicates that there still may be some hope for me.

Bridge Demons

Opponents who criticize my bridge. People who ask in the middle of the bidding, whether anybody has heard the story about the traveling farmer and the salesman's daughter. Little shots who speak familiarly of big shots as "Good old Red" Lewis. "Darling Dotty" Parker. "Sweet Little Lumpy" Miller and so on. Stories about the reconciliations and estrangements of Lupe Velez and Tarzan. People who say that what this country needs is a first-class war.

Actors and actresses who can't quit acting when they're off stage. Small-timers who say, "I'll have to see your story before you print anything about me." Really important people almost never make such a request of newspapermen. Small-timers who try to conduct their own interviews, telling what to print and what to omit.

Phoney Agents

People who tell you grandiloquently that they're in the big money now, and then end the conversation by borrowing 50 cents. Agents who solemnly declare themselves the discoverers of Paul Whiteman Joe Cook, Rudy Vallee, George Jessel, Helen Morgan, George Gershwin Ethel Merman and Joan Crawford. Once, after listening to a long and untruthful list, I asked the fellow if he had brought Mitzi LaForge (a fictitious name and a non-existent person) to prominence. He said yes, certainly; he had found Mitzi singing in a honky-tonk club and got her into a featured spot at the Palais Royale.

When the leather bindings of their rare old books begin to crack and break at the hinges, wealthy people and big libraries send for Miss Janet C. Lewis. She is the nation's foremost book doctor, and perhaps the only specialist in her line.

About 25 years ago she was a portrait painter, but got interested in leather preservation when the bindings in a friend's library began to crumble. Miss Lewis experimented with many compounds and natural oils, finally succeeded with

The Tynmites ate till they were filled. Of course poor little Duncy spilled the watermelon water all around his face and clothes.

Said Goidy, "You're a careless lad. The way you're eating's just too bad. You might, at least, be careful of your big ears, goodness knows."

This made the other Tynmites smile, and then, in just a little while we heard Scouty shout, "Heaven sakes, we've made a sad mistake. 'While we've been having all this fun, the Cheerful Chaps have eaten none of these fine watermelons. Now, their share they all must take.'"

A chap then said, "Gee, I began to fret. I am a hungry man. Just watch how we can eat the melons. They'll soon be all gone."

The Tynmites watched the whole bunch eat. Then Coppy jumped up to his feet and said, "Don't eat too much, lads, or you all will sleep till dawn."

"Oh, no we won't," one Cheerful said. "We're going to hike back home, instead. There's nothing more for us to do here in the Meanies' camp."

"We hate to leave you Tynmites, but you'll be off to see new sights. I guess we'd better leave right now. It's quite a distant tramp."

"Hey! Just a minute. Stand right here until we give you all a cheer!" said friendly little Coppy. "You've been soldiers, brave and bold. 'The war we had was lots of fun for all of us. We're glad you won.' Then all the Tynmites cheered and through the air their voices rolled. The Cheerful Chaps then cheered right back. 'No spirit do you Tynmites lack, said one of them. We hope that we'll all meet again some day.'"

"I am the Captain of this crew and now, I bid goodbye to you. As soon as we're formed into line, we're on our merry way."

a rare black oil obtained from prehistoric animal matter. When this was reproduced synthetically, it was much cheaper, and nearly colorless. The American Museum of Natural History now is rubbing saloons of it into the stuffed hides of elephants for the new Roosevelt Wing.

A famous art connoisseur who inspected her first job of restoration persuaded her to make it a career. After a few commissions in Boston she had more offers than she could accept. Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, Mrs. Edwin S. Gould, Dr. Henry Van Dyke, Felix Warburg, some of the DuPonts, Elbert Gary, J. P. Morgan and many big museums and libraries have been among her patrons. The Reid library probably is the largest private one, but among its 12,000 volumes are many distinguished books in ultra-fancy leather bindings—presents to the original owner during his diplomatic career.

BOOKS WORTH MILLIONS—

During her work in the Morgan library, Miss Lewis reconditioned the geography book once owned by Mary, Queen of Scots. She has worked on several first folios of Shakespeare, most of them in the library of Marsden J. Perry, the financier. One was worth $50,000. Also in the $2,000,000 collection were 100 copies of the Rubaiyat, all elaborately bound. Recently Miss Lewis fixed the Carl Tucker library on birds and once she rubbed the late Daniel Fearing's 10,000 books on fish. The owner watched the "fix" process.

Miss Lewis has several assistants, all educated gentlewomen. She wouldn't think of hiring anybody who didn't know and love fine books, she says. Fact is, the assistants are so appreciative of the treasures that they pledge themselves not to open a book except during lunch hour. Otherwise they would never finish their job.

After Congress paid $1,500,000 for the Volheim collection of incunabula (books printed and bound before the year 1500) Miss Lewis was called in to condition the bindings, which were nearly ruined. Her next big job with ancient books probably will be in the Vatican Library in Rome. Officials of the library already are using her leather restorative, but they want her to come over and give them instruction in the craft.

COLLECTS DIME NOVELS—

Old, expensive books are not always sought by book collectors. There's Dr. Frank P. O'Brien, for example, who cherishes hundreds of dime novels. Some of them are valuable, too, if they date back to the 'fifties. Most of the earliest ones were published by Erastus Beadle, who had a print shop in Buffalo, in 1852, and later moved

EITHER TIGERS OR YANKS LOOK CINCH TO LEAD

Casual Observer Cannot See Any Other Team in American Loop

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR. (Associated Press Sports Writer)

A casual observer of the American League race might wonder how any team could keep either the Detroit Tigers or New York Yankees from winning the pennant.

Racing along only a game apart these rival clubs have turned in some feats of near-perfect baseball in the past few days against all opposition. Detroit walloped the White Sox 7 to 0 yesterday to clinch a six game winning streak which saw them register three shutouts and score 37 runs in three games against Chicago, and the Yanks gained a 3-1 triumph over the Athletics.

Lefty Vernon Gomez, who pitched a three-hit game his last time out, gave the A's only one blow, a rather fluky double by Jimmie Fox. Tony Lazzeri smacked a homer in the seventh and Lou Gehrig found Alton Benson for his 36th circuit swing of the year in the eighth.

Giants Stage Splurge

The league leading Giants staged another splurge in the National League to increase their margin to three games over the Cubs, with Cincinnati lending some aid. While the Giants were downing the Phillies 7 to 4 on the combination of Roy Parmelee's seven-hit flinging, four straight hits, including a homer by manager Bill Terry, and Mel Ott's 29th circuit swing, the Reds held Chicago to an even break in a doubleheader.

Paul Derringer, noted as a "hard luck" hurler, astonished a 30,000 crowd by blanking the Cubs with four hits in the opener to win 4 to 0. Chicago came back with a 4 to 1 triumph when an early attack carried Lon Warneke through to his 15th victory.

Pirates Spill Cards

Pittsburgh staged an uprising that had painful results to another pennant hopeful, the St. Louis Cardinals, and pounded the third-place club around in both games of a doubleheader. A flock of doubles in the seventh and Larry French's relief flinging won the opener 6 to 4, with Paul Dean on the losing end, while the Bucs continued hitting against four more pitchers to take the second clash 7 to 2 behind Waite Hoyt.

Cleveland's Athletics, third place club of the junior circuit, took a 5-2 decision from the Browns with Hal Thosky's 23rd homer as the deciding blow. Washington and Boston split a bargain bill, the Senators taking the opener 2-1 behind Ed Linke's six hit flinging and the Sox getting an even break with a 7-3 triumph.

The Boston Braves and Brooklyn also divided games. Boston won the first 7-4 while the Dodgers took advantage of an error by Les Mallon to score three in the seventh to win, 5 to 3.

Two Champions on Week's Ring Card

New York, Aug. 6 —(AP)—Two champions, Maxie Rosenbloom and Vince Dundee, keep boxing interest alive this week. Both appear in over-weight engagements that top a dull program.

Rosenbloom, light heavyweight champion, meets Pietro Georzi of San Francisco at Oakland, Calif., Wednesday night. The next night Dundee, middleweight king, will battle Tommy Rios, of Wilmington.

PHILS' MANAGER PUT OVER SMART DEAL FOR DOLPH

Even Bill Terry, Boss of the Giants, Says He was Outsmarted

Philadelphia, Aug. 6 —(AP)—Jimmy Wilson, pilot of the Phillies—a mere babe in the baseball managerial woods peopled by diamond veterans noted for thinking "on their feet"—apparently slipped one over on several of the boys when he acquired young Dolph Camilli to hold down first base for the local National League.

In fact, Bill Terry, whose New York Giants bid fair to hang onto their world's championship this season, would even now give the Phils "a nice bundle of cash and a first sacker," could he get the young Italian—and Terry plays no mean game around the initial sack himself.

Be it recalled, Camilli came to the Phils in a deal which sent the burly Don Hurst to the Chicago Cubs. Before that, Dolph had been a performer in the Pacific Coast League. Since coming to the Phils he has been one of the clubs' top performers.

Terry says he was completely outsmarted by Wilson, serving his first year in a managerial capacity, in the deal. Terry didn't even know that Camilli was up for sale.

"In getting Camilli for Hurst, the Phils pulled one of the smartest trades that has ever been completed in this league since I have been playing the circuit," Terry admits.

"If I had had any intimation that Camilli was on the block, I would have offered Chicago a lot more than the Phils gave for him. In fact, right now I am willing to give the Phils a nice bundle of cash and a first baseman for him, but I doubt very much if Wilson will trade."

Living Our Everyday Lives

WHAT'S YOUR SECRET? By Joseph Fort Newton.

All of us are something in secret of which we do not tell.

Each of us has a dear desire, a hidden dream of what we would do if only we were free to do it. It is something very different from our everyday job. If we should tell what we want to be, and do what we actually want to do, how amazed our best friends would be!

A famous preacher, who had Spanish blood in him, used to do what he wanted to do on holidays. He donned cowboy garb, big hat, boots and a flaming red necktie, and went to the southwest to live with the cattle-men and Indians. He looked like a brilliant band leader, and when he offered a clergyman a ticket on the train, the conductor refused it. That filled his cup of happiness—for he knew he was unknown and free.

A bus-driver in London had a master passion, to be a painter. On his days off, he haunted the art galleries, now the Wallace, now the Tate, studying pictures. He wanted to paint a Laughing Christ—out in the open. His hair tossed by the winds, his head thrown back in hearty, wholesome, ringing, victorious laughter, as if to drive all shadows away.

A friend of mine, an iron-maker—grave, sedate, almost stern—took me to the attic of his home. He was rather shy about it, asking me not to give him away. The attic was a work-shop, full of tools and machines, where he spent his off time building tiny yachts. He knew all the famous yachts that ever sailed, as if he had done nothing else.

All his quiet gravity dropped off and he was a big, happy boy. He told me the story of the great yacht races, and how and why they were won or lost. No one would ever have guessed his secret, and he would not doubt punch me for telling it. Yet it gave me a glimpse into his soul, and helped me to know him better and love him more.

What would you do if you could do what you want to do? What is your secret? Yes, I have mine, but I am not going to tell it!

HITLER AVOIDS POLITICS AS HE DELIVERS SPEECH

Address to Reichstag Today Eulogy of von Hindenburg

Berlin, Aug. 6 —(AP)—From the rostrum where on July 13 he defended his killing 77 "revolutionaries" and declared he was Germany's law, Adolf Hitler today paid solemn tribute to the late President Paul von Hindenburg and prayed for the peace, freedom and honor of Germany.

"Deputies of the German Reichstag, men and women of the German people," the Chancellor leader spoke, "I implore you all now to look beyond this transitory moment into the future. Let the strong realization enter our hearts: the Herr Reichspräsident Field Marshal General von Hindenburg is not dead."

"He is living. For in dying he now wanders above us amidst the immortals of our people surrounded by the great spirits of the past as an eternal patron and protector of the German Reich and the German nation."

Innocent of War

Hitler declared the late President was "as innocent of the beginning of the war as anybody in the world could be," pointing out that when the conflict began in 1914, von Hindenburg was living in retirement, having taken his discharge from the army at the age of 64 on March 18, 1911.

The new leader of Germany praised von Hindenburg as a military commander and declared:

"Had the political leadership of our people during this period been congenial with the military, Germany would have been spared the greatest humiliation ever to go down in history."

He said that the World War broke upon a German people "sincerely convinced of having been attacked without their guilt."

Non-Political Speech

The chancellor's address, delivered before a hushed audience in the Kroll opera house—which still serves as the temporary Reichstag building following last year's fire—was non-political in character, although he made frequent references to the principles of his own regime in

'OLD MAN RIVER' FEELING EFFECT OF REFORM WAVE

Wandering Ways of Mississippi Are Soon to be Controlled

NEA Service Staff Correspondent.
Winona, Minn.—The whole of the upper Mississippi is being rebuilt in a new way.

So extensive is this change and so important that it is being given the name of "Old Man River" by the people of the upper Mississippi.

The president will see three of them in the course of his 47-mile river trip from Lake City to Winona. Each will create a large lake in place of a swift-flowing river, and will spread over thousands of acres of the wooded bottomlands of "Little Switzerland."

This section is so called because of its scenic beauty. The river is bordered by towering wooded bluffs of strange formation.

A recent allotment of $18,000,000 has been made, most of it for this work on the upper Mississippi, in addition to the $33,000,000 already allotted. This has furnished work for 8500 workmen on all 18 projects, with a still larger number given indirect employment.

The entire scheme is to cost $124,000,000. It was adopted by Congress in 1930 and it was then expected that it would take 10 or 15 years to complete. Work moved slowly. But last summer President Roosevelt ordered the work made part of the nation-wide re-employment plan. Money was allotted from the PWA, and now the whole thing should be completed by 1936, giving a nine foot channel from the Twin Cities to the Gulf.

Four complete sets of locks and dams have already been finished in this section. Sixteen are under construction and seven are in the planning stage. They will run along the river's course all the way to St. Louis, with a large dam at Alton, just above that city, where Huckleberry Finn and Tom Sawyer's river caves can still be seen.

Employment of more than 8000 men during the winter is a great boon to this section, helping a hard-beset state to bear the burden of unemployment.

Workmen Plan Welcome
At the two dams at Alma, Wis., and Whitman, Minn., and the lock near Winona which the president will inspect, nearly 2000 men are working. They are planning a hearty greeting to the man whose forward look toward water development made their jobs possible.

The president, who is a fisherman and sportsman, is expected to take keen interest in the upper Mississippi river life and fish refuge, which covers most of the territory hereabouts.

This is a gigantic Federal conservation project started in 1927. It contains more than 180,000 acres of river bottomlands, extending 300 miles from Wabasha, Minn., to Rock Island, Ill. This whole section is a resting and nesting fly-away for herds of waterfowl every spring and autumn.

The section is also rich in Indian lore and early American history. The sites of two French forts established nearly 300 years ago will be pointed out to the party. Communities along the river banks, dating back to the days when they were little fur-trading posts in the wilderness, reflect the historical background of a region that has lived under three flags, French and Indian names abound, and in themselves tell a story.

Not all the Upper Mississippi dams are like the usual idea of a dam. Some of them are merely brush-and-stone walls jutting out into the current from either bank. Their purpose is to keep the current in the center of the channel.

The tends, of course to make it deeper and swifter, scouring out its own channel in the narrow center.

There are literally thousands of such "dams" in the upper reaches of the Mississippi, all of which past work will lend aid to the present project.

Battle Fought For Years
This development is the latest move in a battle with Old Man river that has been going on for 70 years and more. How old the battle is may be seen by the

ONE OF EVERY 5 IN U. S. DEPENDS ON "EASY MONEY"

23 Million of Citizens Live on Dole of the "New Deal"

A special dispatch to The Chicago Tribune from its Washington bureau states that "approximately 23 million people—almost one out of every five persons in the country—are wholly or partially dependent for their living on the easy money doled out by the New Dealers." Continuing, the Tribune says:

A survey of official figures today showed that through relief, work relief, pensions, farm benefit payments and direct employment, the New Dealers have placed 22,934,000 persons on the taxpayers' pay roll. Millions upon millions of dollars are flowing directly from the treasury into the pockets of these people.

Million More Get Aid
In addition to the staggering total of those receiving direct cash benefits from the federal government, there are 1,236,000 home owners and farmers in the country who are being financed by direct federal loans. They bring the total of federal easy money beneficiaries up to 24,170,000.

Here is the cash pay roll, having on it one out of every five persons in the country, which the New Dealers have built up:

Direct Payments
Relief	16,000,000
Work relief	970,000
Veterans and retired civilians	919,000
Federal employees	650,000
Public Works Employees	632,000
Army and Navy	259,000
Conservation Corps	328,000
AAA beneficiaries	3,185,000
Total	22,934,000

Loans
Home mortgages	414,000
Farm mortgages	420,000
Seed loans	376,000
Drought loans	26,000
TOTAL	1,236,000

Brain Trust Grips Power

With a fifth of the country wholly or partially dependent on the New Dealers for their living, the brain trust has taken a terrific grip on political power in this country, observers here admit.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and other brain trust members are frank to say that at least a by-product of the huge New Deal is the purchase of political popularity for the Roosevelt administration. Secretary Wallace, in discussing the relatively poor showing of the New Deal in the middle west in a recent straw vote of the country, frankly ascribed the fact to the failure of AAA corn hog payments to get under way.

That the ward heelers of the party in power are attempting to turn citizens' dependency on easy money into political capital has recently come to light. The Home Owners Loan Corporation and the Farm Credit Administration, who hold mortgages on more than 800,000 farmers and city dwellers, have admitted being approached by political workers with requests for lists of their mortgagees.

Seen as Frankenstein

Critics of the New Deal charge that the huge pay roll will turn out to be a Frankenstein, destroying the New Deal. Having given the people a taste of easy money, the New Dealers must go through the unpopular process of cutting them off the pay roll or of bankrupting the treasury through a continuation of the billion dollar pay roll.

By far the largest item on the pay roll is relief. The drought, which has added almost 3,200,000 to the dole lists this summer, has prevented the usual midyear recession in relief costs. As a result the total number on relief, as reported by the relief administration is 3,600,000 families, or, according to administration estimates, 17,000,000 persons.

Second largest item, however, is the AAA cash payments to farmers. This year approximately 3,185,000 farmers are scheduled to receive checks on the federal treasury for acreage reduction. Of these 1,112,000 will be under the corn-hog program, 970,000 under cotton, 844,000 under wheat and 239,000 under tobacco.

970,000 on "Work R. H."

"Work relief," the successor to CWA, is causing 970,000 persons to

When Storming Party Took Radio Plant From Nazis

Poised for a charge into the Vienna radio station, seized by Nazi rebels in their thwarted Austrian uprising, government troops are shown here beside the doorway of the building, weapons ready for the attack. They recaptured the station, taking a number of prisoners. Shortly after, it was discovered Chancellor Dollfus had been assassinated.

Bank Offers Gift to Depositors Who Withdraw Accounts

Chicago—In years gone by many Chicagoans were induced to open deposits in banks through gifts—clocks, scales, books, etc. Reversing the old order, the First National Bank of Englewood is offering de luxe pencils to its depositors having small accounts if they will withdraw them.

President J. W. Nichols—"100 Per Cent Nichols"—explained the gift yesterday by saying that the bank could not afford to keep the small accounts.

"Believe it or not," Mr. Nichols says in a message to his depositors, "the First National Bank of Englewood is giving something away before considering a service charge, we are first offering those small savings accounts with balances of $100 or less a brand new de luxe pencil provided they will close their accounts within the next thirty days. What a break! First you were given a premium to open an account, now you are given a premium to close it. An immediate withdrawal will avoid the possibility of a charge."

"Money has become a burden. Like commodities it has a value so long as it can be put to some good use. Beyond that point it is of no worth. Not only are we closing the small accounts but we have discontinued the opening of new accounts until such time as we can safely and profitably invest our excessive cash reserves."

"Under the regimentation of this so-called New Deal, sound industry is afraid to borrow and consequently the banks are loaded with idle currency."

draw weekly pay checks from the treasury. Veterans and other pensioners who get a monthly stipend from the government number over 919,000.

Since the arrival of the New Deal direct employment in the federal bureaucracy has risen steadily until it is near the wartime peak. About 650,000 persons, including some part time workers, are directly employed making the wheels of the Washington bureaucracy turn.

Public works, once hailed as the solution for unemployment, have amounted to very little and are far down on the list of pay roll totals with only 623,000.

AMBOY STAGED BIG FETE FOR PIONEER FIRM

Scott, treasurer, and son Robert L. Jr., all of whose fathers were members of the original firm of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., and William Carson, whose great uncle was associated with the founders of the firm.

After a pageant at the William Clark store the site of the original Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. enterprise, a mammoth parade took place through the streets of the city. The procession formed at the fair grounds and led by the Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. drum and bugle corps, paraded through the business section. There were many floats and entries in the parade which indicated conditions and events of the days when the now famous merchandising firm launched out into business in Amboy.

At the close of the parade, the large crowd gathered about the stand which had been erected near the fountain where the program of dedication was to be held.

Gov. Horner Spoke
Representative John P. Devine of this city introduced Governor Henry Horner, the principal speaker on the program. He paid a tribute to the firm of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., who started their business career in Amboy 80 years ago, and the speaker added that the fact of the prosperous growth of this firm was conclusive that it had been conducted along the proper business lines. Referring to the Illinois state government, Representative Devine stated that he had served under five governors during his years in office, and referring to Governor Horner, told his listeners that the present head of the state was confronted with problems greater than any of the others, even including Illinois' Civil War governor, in that Governor Horner was waging a war against starvation in Illinois, in which he has been very successful. He introduced Governor Horner, who was the principal speaker on the program who in his remarks defended many of his outstanding political measures.

In answering to the fine introduction by Representative Devine, Governor Horner said:

"I am somewhat at a loss to know after that fine introduction by Representative Devine, whether down at Springfield, he is serving under me or whether I many times am serving under that sturdy oak of this district, John P. Devine, whom I consider one of the finest statesmen in the country today and one of whom Lee county should justly feel proud."

Launching briefly into the motif of the day, Governor Horner stated that in observing the costumes worn by many of the young ladies in the parade that he had decided that the ladies of 1854 had barely escaped the crinoline age and just got under the bustle age. He compared the fine record of success of the firm whose birthday was being celebrated on this occasion and attributed it largely to that spirit of cooperation, not alone among the members of the firm but among every employee. He advocated a like program of cooperation for Illinois in removing the time-old feeling of opposition between Chicago, Cook county and downstate. He then referred to the special tax legislation which has been enacted under his administration.

Praised Chicago Firm.
"Home is the theme of home-comings," Gov. Horner said, "and in this notable event, we are glad to participate. Such a record as that of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. is significant not only of hard work, pioneering and sacrifice, but displays a fine spirit of development as is evidenced here in Amboy today. Without business we have no employment and without employment there is no outlet for the products of our farmers. We must succeed all together or we fail all together. Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. are a part, not only in the development of Amboy and Chicago but of the state of Illinois."

"Their code to their clerks in that early day when this great business was launched in Amboy is not an unusual thing. It indicates that codes are not a new thing and as I read it, I find that this fine firm not only built in a business way but built character in their employees. That was their code of 1854. Every institution is built by men in the desire to progress and represents the lengthening of the shadow of some one individual. Today I consider it a great honor and a pleasure to come to Amboy and offer my tribute to this great mercantile firm of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., and to be a guest at this home-coming in Amboy."

Mayor Paul Doty then presented John T. Pirie, Jr., who briefly expressed his delight in being able to attend the home-coming, and paid a tribute to the founders of the great firm who 80 years ago laid the foundation for the successful growth of the institution. Joining Mayor Doty and Governor Horner, Mr. Pirie left the stand and walked to the fountain which was officially unveiled and presented to the city of Amboy, the birthplace of the firm of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co.

Delegations of merchants from Dixon and many other towns were present, the greater number being customers of the firm. Numbered among these was Henry M. Chaon of Compton, who has been one of the company's largest customers in the northern Illinois district. Dixon was very largely represented in the celebration, a delegation of local merchants and large groups of citizens being present.

Wales Refuses to Accept Hero Role: Helped Save a Boy

Blairitz, France, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The Prince of Wales refused today to play a hero's role for aiding in the rescue of a lad from drowning yesterday.

The small boy was caught by a huge wave which lifted him from the beach into a swimming pool. The Prince was one of those who plunged to the aid of the choking lad and pulled him to safety.

Prince Edward pointed out that he was only one of a number surrounding the pool at the time. Many persons crowded about to congratulate him.

Shortly after the incident, the Prince returned to his villa. He arrived several days ago for a vacation.

THREE PRIMARY RACES WILL BE RUN TOMORROW

Elections to be Held in Missouri, Kansas and West Virginia

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The last laps in three spirited primary races were run today, with the electorate picking the winners tomorrow in Missouri, West Virginia and Kansas.

Nomination for two seats in the United States Senate—both now held by Republicans—are at stake in Missouri and West Virginia. No Senatorship is being filled in Kansas.

Candidates also are being nominated for twenty-six seats in the House of Representatives—thirteen in Missouri, six in West Virginia and seven in Kansas.

The Missouri race, involving a three-cornered sprint for Democratic state control, is expected to bring out a record off-year primary vote.

"Boss" Tom Prendergast of Kansas City is backing Harry S. Truman for the Democratic senatorial nomination; Senator Bennett Champ Clark is pushing Congressman Jacob L. "Tuck" Milligan; the St. Louis organization is behind Congressman John J. Cohn for the senatorship. A fourth candidate, James Longstreet Cleveland, did not campaign actively.

Republican Unopposed
The Republican incumbent, Senator Roscoe C. Patterson, is unopposed for re-nomination.

Nine candidates are elbowing their way in a free-for-all for the Democratic senatorial nomination in West Virginia, with Clement L. Shaver, former national chairman, former Senator W. E. Chilton and Ruth D. Holt apparently leading the field.

The winner probably will oppose Senator Harry D. Hatfield in November. While all the Democratic aspirants have pledged control to the Roosevelt administration, Hatfield—vigorously critic of the "new deal"—has met scant opposition from four Republican opponents.

There is a six-cornered race for the Democratic nomination for Governor in Kansas, but only one man has challenged the incumbent, Gov. Alf M. Landon, on the Republican track.

Governor Landon, one of the state's youngest governors at 46, has for his opponent Dr. John R. Brinkley, the "goat gland" surgeon who has run third in the last two gubernatorial elections as an independent.

The counting of ballots from Saturday's primary election in Kentucky starts today, in accordance with state law.

Swimming Growing in Favor
It is reported that five times more records have been established in swimming during the past few years than in any other sport.

There are 26 varieties of food canned in the United States.

HAVE YOU EVER THOUGHT
AS YOU TRAVEL
LIFE'S ROAD?

Have you ever thought
As you travel Life's road,
That you're not the only one
Bearing a load;
That many more folks' feebly
Falter around—
Have many more griefs,
But utter no sound?

Have you ever thought
In humanity's file,
That most of the troubles,
Stay just for a while;
That tempests and temptors,
No matter how strong,
Are met by the lowly
And great of Life's throng?

Have you ever thought
That the sturdiest tree
Looks grander where gales
Of the forest blow free?
When more strength is needed,
The mightiest oak
Looms sternly aloft
Where thunder-blasts broke

Have you ever thought
You are never alone,
Although you have troubles
You think are your own?
They may seem gigantic,
Or they may be small;
But never forget
That you don't have them all.

NEWS of the CHURCHES

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Love" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 5th.

The Golden Text was "He shall feed His flock like a shepherd; he shall gather the lambs with his arm, and carry them in his bosom, and shall gently lead those that are with young." (Isaiah 40:11.)

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Be- loved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and know- eth God. He that loveth not know- eth not God; for God is love. . . . And this commandment have we from Him, That he who loveth God love his brother also." (1 John 4:7, 8, 21.)

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The depth, breadth, height, might, majesty and glory of infinite Love fill all space. That is enough!" (P. 520.)

MAY HOLD RITES FOR AVIATRIX IN AIR AT NEW YORK

Mrs. Frances Marsalis, Famous Flier, Oll-
ed at Dayton, O.

Dayton, O., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Over the air lines she flew fearlessly in life, Mrs. Frances Harrell Marsalis, 29, will travel in death.

The aviatrix, co-holder of the women's refueling endurance flight record, was killed yesterday when her light biplane plunged to earth within sight of the last marker of the 50-mile feature race of the national women's air meet.

Tentative arrangements were made today to take her body by plane back to her home at Garden City, Long Island, N. Y. Her ship caught in the backwash of five other planes, nosed down, dug a hole three feet deep in the ground, then somersaulted. Belief that she was attempting to avoid collision with two of the five planes was expressed by Frank Reibold of Dayton, one of the judges at the pylon nearest the scene.

Companion In Race
Miss Helen Richey of McKeesport, Pa., holder with Mrs. Marsalis of the endurance record of nine days, 21 hours and 42 minutes, established in Miami, Fla., last Dec. 30, was piloting one of the eleven ships which started the race.

She did not know of her former partner's death until she landed, in second place, before some 6,000 spectators. The race was won by Miss Edna M. Gardner of the U. S. naval hospital, Washington, D. C. "It's terrible," Miss Richey said when she learned of the crash. Advised at Newark, N. J. airport that her former wife had met death, William Marsalis, co-pilot for a transport company, made his regular run to Washington. They were divorced August 2 in Augusta, Ga.

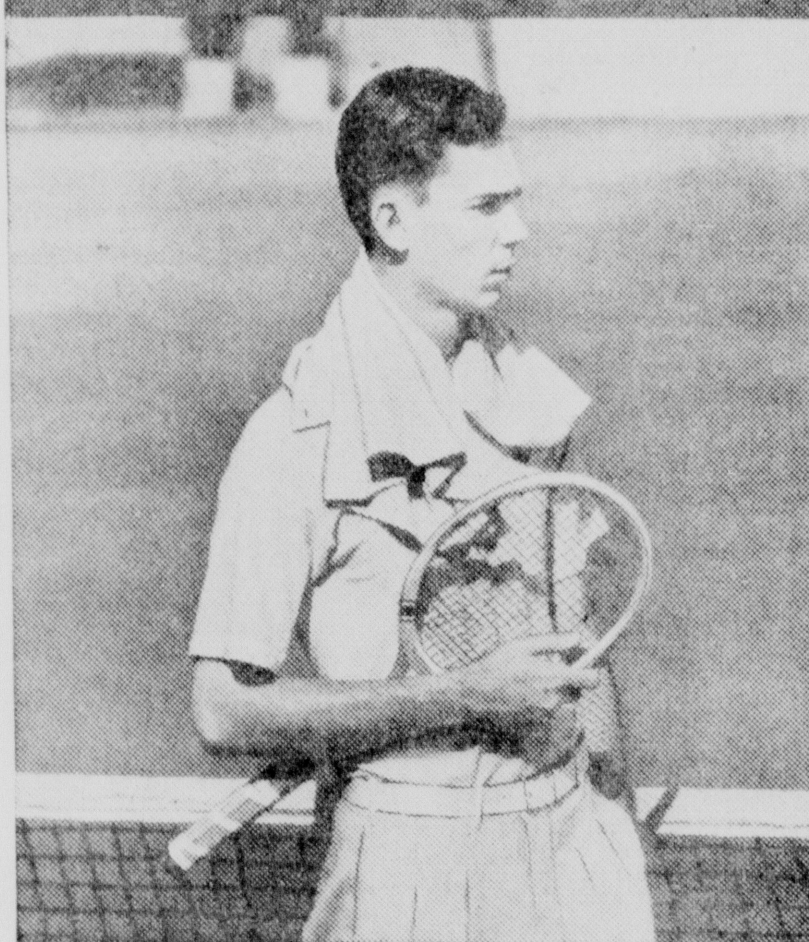

Tentative plans considered by friends of the dead flier here included an aerial funeral, with services conducted in a plane high over New York.

Oats of the Hebrides

On Ulst and other islands of the Hebrides there grows a special oat called the "small oat." Plant breeders know it as Avena strigosa and it is the only oat that can be grown in these islands. The Hebridean islands are situated off the north-west coast of Scotland where farming conditions are not too favorable. The small oat is also grown in Wales. It was very common on most farms in Scotland prior to 1790, when newer varieties of oats were introduced. The small oat has a higher feeding variety than the cultivated varieties. The analysis shows it to be higher in protein, oil and ash, and lower in carbohydrates and fiber than ordinary oats. The small oat is an important crop in these islands and in parts of Scotland and Wales where it is also used to feed in sheaves to stock, and is mainly depended on for fodder.

AT THE TOP OF THE HEAP IN TENNIS! That is the enviable position of Ellsworth Vines, Jr., the spectacular young Pasadena athletic star who holds the U. S. National Championships for 1931 and 1932, and has now swept through the 1934 professional ranks as well!

YOU'LL enjoy this pleasing "Energizing Effect"

When you've used up your energy at work or play—smoke a Camel and notice how soon you feel your flow of natural energy snap back.

This experience, long known to Camel smokers, has now been confirmed by a famous New York research laboratory. Camel smokers enjoy a positive "energizing effect" ... a healthful and delightful release of natural, vibrant energy. Millions have found this to be true. A typical Camel experience is this, Ellsworth Vines, Jr. speaking—

"Championship tennis is one of the fastest of modern sports. After four or five sets, you sometimes feel that you just can't take another step. That's when a Camel tastes like a million dollars. Not only does the rich, mellow fragrance appeal to my taste, but Camels have a refreshing way of bringing my energy up to a higher level. And I can smoke all the Camels I want, for they don't interfere with my nerves."

So, whenever you want a "lift," just smoke a Camel. You can smoke them steadily. For the finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS in Camels never get on your nerves.
